London, December 6.

Late last Night arriv'd a Mail from Holland, bringing the following Advices.

Vienna, November 29.

General Heister, instead of going to the Army in lower Hungary t'other day as he gave out he would, went to the River Marck; and putting himself at the Head of some Regular and Militia Troops, surpriz'd a Body of Malecontents in 3 Villages, of whom he kill'd 500, made many others Prisoners, burnt the 3 Villages, and took a great Booty, in particular 100 Head of Cattle. After which he advanc'd towards 6000 Rebels commanded by the Sieur Oskay, who at his Approach retir'd over the Marck, towards the Waag, whither he is pursuing them.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated Dec. 11.

Ratisbon, Dec. 5. Prince Eugene of Savoy appearing before Ingolstad, summon'd the Garrison to evacuate it, (pursuant to the Treaty of Accommodation between the Emperor and the Electoress of Bavaria,) giving them only 48 Hours to determine what to do. They return'd Answer that they would march out to morrow (the 6th.) General Auffas is dead here of the Stone. We have receiv'd Advice by an Express from Rome, that the Count de Lamberg, the Emperor's Ambassador, is dead there of an Apoplexy; and that the Countess his Wife and the Countess of Hoyos his Sister, were so struck with Grief at it, that they died presently after. 'Tis reported the Bavarians evacuated Knittein the 29th of last Month.

Frankfort, Dec. 7. The 4th of this Month, the King of the Romans set out Post from Heidelberg for Vienna. The Elector of Mentz likewise is return'd to Mentz, whence he will go to Aschaffembourg and thence to Bamberg, where he will pass the Winter: And the Elector Palatin is expected to Night at Wisbaden, in his Return to Dusseldorp. A Report is spread here to day, that the Garrison of Ingolstad has evacuated that Place, upon Prince Eugene's Summons, of which we expect a Confirmation.

Leiden, Dec. 11. Letters from Triers of the 5th instant advise, that the Count de Noyelles and General Dopf were arriv'd there; that the Detachment of Hessians which march'd with 4 Pieces of Cannon to dislodge the French from Dagstoul, arriv'd the 4th before that Castle, garrison'd with 50 Men; That the French had made a Motion towards Saarbruk, in hopes the Garrison the Allies had put into it, would, upon their Approach, abandon it; but that finding the contrary they retir'd: That the Enemies Army commanded by Monsieur d'Alegre soon after separated; and that the Troops of which it was compos'd are gone into Winter Quarters; part in Lorrain, and the rest in Luxembourg, Longui, Thionville, and Saar-Louis.

From the Camp before Traerbach they write the 6th Instant, that the new Batteries began to fire the 2d and continued so doing with good success. That the Besiegers had carried on the Approaches to the Counterscarp, within 10 Paces of the Gate of the Castle: That they design'd to make a general Assault the 9th or 10th, in Order to which a considerable Number of Pioneers were summon'd in, and to bring each 6 Fascines with them. That upon a Report that the French were in Motion to Attempt the Relief of Traerbach, the Hereditary Prince of Hesse Cassel detach'd 6000 Men, to joyn some Troops from Triers and other Places, and to make Head against the Enemy; but that this Detachment return'd to the Camp before Traerbach upon receiving Intelligence on their March that the Report we have mention'd was false, and that on the contrary the Body of Troops commanded by the Marquis d'Alegre was separated and gone into Winter-Quarters.

Letters from Amsterdam advise that the Duke of Marlborough arriv'd there yesterday the 10th Instant; that his Excellency was receiv'd at the City Gate with a Salvo from the Artillery on the Ramparts, and Complimented on the part of the Magistrates by the Pensionary Monsieur de la Bassecourt, that he was conducted in a Coach to the Burgher-Master Witsen's House, where he Din'd with the Regent Burgher-Masters; that he lay there last Night; that to day his Excellency would take a View of the most remarkable Places in the City, accompanied by the Burgher-Masters; and that to morrow (the 12th) he will proceed to the Hague.

They write from the Hague, that Monsieur d'Auverquerque arriv'd there the 10th instant at Night, with several of the chief Officers that have made the Campaign under his Excellency. That the Duke of Marlborough is expected there tomorrow, (the 12th.) That several Persons of Quality are gone to Amsterdam to meet him; And that after his Arrival at the Hague, a fine Firework will be plaid off in the Vivier.

Hague, Dec. 11. The ordinary and extraordinary State of War for the Year 1705, having been settled by the Council of State, and sent up to the States General, has been by them sent to the respective Provinces, for their Concurrence; and we expect to hear of its being generally approv'd. Mean time we hear our Land Forces are to be augmented with 12000 Men, (besides the Recruits,) and our Fleet with 12 Men of War of the Line of Battle. The Duke of Marlborough is expected here tomorrow: 136 Colours taken in the Battle of Hochstet are brought hither, and put into the Palace of Prince Maurice of Nassau, in which my Lord Duke is to lodge.

Lisbon, Dec. 3. We have receiv'd Advice, that Sir John Lake with the Squadron of Men of War, with which he sail'd from hence the 5th of last Month, arriv'd the 9th in the Bay of Gibraltar, where he found 5 French Frigates, one of which he took, the other 4 were burnt by the Enemy. Colonel Fox, and Nugent, Deputy Governour of the Place under under the Prince of Hesse Darmstadt, are kill'd. The Siege is carried on by the Enemy with great Vigour. The Besieged are in no Want of Ammunition or Provisions, but desire a speedy Reinforcement of Men; whereupon we are getting ready Transport Ships for carrying thither from hence with all possible Expedition 2000 English and Dutch, and 500 Portugeze are to Embark at Lagos Bay.

☞ These are to certifie (for the Publick Good, as well as the Just Reputation of that famous Oculist Dr. WILLIAM READ, who lives in Durham-yard in the Strand, London) that in the month of November 1704, John Warner Son of Mr. Samuel Warner of the third Troop of Her Majesty's Guards, who lives next door to the Castle in Queen-street near the Seven Dyals, was absolutely blind on both Eyes by a violent Defluxion of Humours, and an inveterate Pain in his Head and Eyes, that he could take no rest, in that manner, that all who looked upon him thought him incurable, by reason both his Eyes were sunk in his Head by a Discharge of the Aqueous Humour occasion'd by an Impostumation; notwithstanding the great danger he was in, the said Dr. READ (Her Majesty's Oculist) hath restor'd him to his perfect Sight of both Eyes by his extraordinary Care and Skill.
